David is an entrepreneur at heart, and with the help of his team, has spent more than 15 years growing Voices from the ground up to become a global leader in the voice over industry. Scaling up from a small home studio, Voices now operates in over 160 countries and in 100+ languages and dialects. As Chief Executive Officer and Founder, David is responsible for setting the vision, executing the growth strategy, and actively manages the company on a day-to-day basis. He is a graduate of Harvard Business School, and has been published in outlets such as The Globe & Mail, Forbes, Entrepreneur, and The Wall Street Journal.
